What's Happening with the Website (or, what happened to it)?

In June, when we moved to a new web hosting service, I had to rebuild the website. I have had a learning curve and some lessons in humility as I continue to learn some new software. I have also reached out for help in getting the new site up and running. (It's been built- I just haven't been able to get it working right on the web yet)

I'm very grateful to Charon L (District 8), who has experience with the software I'm using and who agreed to help figure out how to fix the publishing issues. I am very happy to report that, as of 4 am this morning, the North Florida Area website is back up correctly. It isn't what I had built a few months ago and it doesn't have all the bells and whistles on it yet, but it is a much better version than the "temporary website" that has been up the past few months. All districts now have their own websites and NFA web links to them all.

Over the next few weeks I will be adding the guidelines and contact links, along with some cool functionality. Thank you all for your patience and for the suggestions you've given me on what should and should not be on our new website. Your input is invaluable to me.

Despite the challenges, I remain grateful for the opportunity to be of service.

Your Web Diva,

Sharon E.
